The Woman Wordsmith

ABOUT THE COMPANY

Well-Written Words, LLC is a South Florida based freelance writing, editing, and consulting service. We work with individuals, schools, non-profit organizations, and businesses to provide guidance and assistance through every phase of the writing process.

From researching, copywriting, and editing to custom designed writing seminars and workshops, Well-Written Words, LLC offers personal attention to our clients' individual needs. Whether the project is a résumé, advertisement, or book manuscript, we will meet you where you are and help you reach your goal.

Allow us to create the document you need or coach you through the process one step at a time. At Well-Written Words, LLC, we specialize in channeling ideas from thought to written expression.

Tawnicia Ferguson Rowan, "The Woman Wordsmith" is the Founder and CEO of Well-Written Words, LLC. She is a passionate writer, educator, and scholar with a special interest in womanist thought and spiritual empowerment. A published author with degrees in English Literature from Spelman College and Vanderbilt University, Tawnicia has worked as a journalist, research assistant, writing consultant, and college professor. She is the editor of Lessons on Living Abundantly: Reflections on the Life and Ministry of the Reverend Dr. Johnnie Colemon, and a contributing author of Women of Color Pray: Voices of Strength, Faith, Healing, Hope and Courage; and Beyond Julia's Daughters: Women in Dade's History, 1975-2000. In 2005, Tawnicia was honored by the Women's Fund of Miami-Dade and The Black Archives History and Research Foundation of South Florida. She has been featured at the Miami Book Fair International, in The Miami Herald and The Miami Times, on Hot 105 (105.1 FM), and on "South Florida Today" (NBC 6), among other guest appearances in the South Florida community. She serves as an adjunct professor at Florida Memorial University and the Director of Publications and Literary Arts for The Universal Truth Center for Better Living.

Tawnicia believes that writing is an invaluable vehicle for the effective communication of ideas, and she is committed to using her talents to help others master the written word. "Demonstrating the value of reading and writing as tools of personal empowerment is part of my life work," Tawnicia explains. "Not only is it what I do; it is who I am."
